MASTERS

PORTUGAL SEASON
THREE

CREST AUTOSPORT

Rallye de Portugal Vinho do Porto, as the championship arrives in 1994, remains one of the most legendary and unforgiving gravel rallies in the world. The rally stretches across the rugged Portuguese countryside, from fast, dusty forest roads in the north to rough, rock-strewn mountain stages that punish cars and drivers alike.

Surface conditions evolve rapidly - soft gravel on the first pass gives way to deep ruts and exposed stone on the second, testing suspension strength and tyre durability to the limit. Massive crowds gather on the hillsides, creating an atmosphere unlike any other rally, particularly on iconic stages such as Arganil and Fafe, where bravery and precision are rewarded in equal measure.

Between 1987 and 1993, Rally Portugal has consistently proven to be a decisive battleground, favouring drivers who can balance outright speed with mechanical sympathy. As the 1994 edition begins, it stands as a rally where endurance, rhythm, and resilience define success.

Rallye de Portugal Winners (1987–1993):

1987 – Miki Biasion (Lancia Delta HF 4WD)

1988 – Markku Alén (Lancia Delta HF 4WD)

1989 – Miki Biasion (Lancia Delta Integrale)

1990 – Carlos Sainz (Toyota Celica GT-Four ST165)

1992 – Juha Kankkunen (Lancia Delta Integrale 16V)
