ΡΑΛΛΥ ΑΚΡΟΠΟΛΗΣ INTERAMERICAN

The Acropolis Rally, as it stands in 1994, remains one of the most punishing and feared events in the World Rally Championship - a true car-breaker forged in the mountains of Greece.

Centered around Athens and stretching into the rocky, sun-scorched terrain beyond, the rally is defined by rough gravel roads littered with sharp stones, deep ruts, and relentless heat that pushes engines, tyres, and suspension to their absolute limits.

Speeds are often lower than other gravel rallies, but the intensity is unmatched, as drivers must carefully balance aggression with mechanical sympathy to avoid retirement. Dust hangs in the air, visibility can be limited, and long, brutal stages leave no room for error.

Between 1987 and 1993, the Acropolis has rewarded those who can endure rather than attack - drivers who understand that survival is the key to victory. As the 1994 edition approaches, it remains a rally where toughness, patience, and resilience define champions.

Acropolis Rally Winners (1987-1993):

1987 – Juha Kankkunen (Lancia Delta HF 4WD)

1988 – Miki Biasion (Lancia Delta HF 4WD)

1989 – Miki Biasion (Lancia Delta Integrale)

1990 – Juha Kankkunen (Lancia Delta Integrale 16V)

1991 – Ari Vatanen (Subaru Legacy RS)

1992 – Carlos Sainz (Toyota Celica GT-Four ST165)

1993 – Juha Kankkunen (Toyota Celica Turbo 4WD)
